Ten States Favor Acreage Reduction at Cotton Meeting

Action Taken at Jackson Meet as Proposal for Relief Legislation

COOPERATION URGED

States Where Statute Has Not Been Passed Asked to Act

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—The south-wide uniform cotton control conference late Monday adopted the Texas curtailment plan, calling for 50 percent reduction in cotton planting in 1932 and 1933, as its recommendation for relief legislation in all the southern states.

Ten of the 11 cotton producing states represented here cast their votes for the Texas plan to boost prices in the face of this year's bumper crop. North Carolina's delegation, instructed not to vote, abstained from the ballot.

The resolution adopted by the conference, seeking uniform legislation throughout the South, was recommended by a special committee on which each state has two representatives who wrestled for hours behind closed doors on the best plan for all the legislatures to adopt.

The lead of the Texas legislature in enactment of an acreage curtailment law has already been followed by South Carolina, Arkansas and Mississippi. Governors of all states where the plan has not been invoked, were urged by the inference to convene their legislatures immediately to enact the uniform law.

Leukemia has enacted a cotton holiday measure which will probably have to be substituted by the proposed acreage reduction plan.

The 10 state delegations which lined up behind the committee amended resolution offered by State Senator W. B. Roberts of Rosedale, Miss., veteran legislator and planter, were those of Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

Harmonious action and a definite trend for acreage reduction as opposed to total cotton prohibition predominated Monday among the approximately 200 delegates, including four governors, who gathered at the request of Governor Harvey B. Parnell of Arkansas and Governor Theo. G. Billoe of Mississippi. Differences threatened to deadlock the assembly on several occasions, but when the resolutions committee reported out late Monday afternoon in favor of uniform reduction there was little opposition before the vote.

The Roberts resolution recommended specifically that an acreage control law similar in effect to the law now in force in the state of Texas be adopted by all cotton producing states, with such modifications of administrative features as will prevent grave injustices to citizens of sections of such states, and that "the independence and sovereignty of other states in adopting laws securing at least a 50 per cent reduction of acreage be respected."

Tourists Injured In Auto Accident

Mississippi Couple Hurt as Car Strikes Another on Highway

TEXARKANA—Two persons were injured in an automobile crash near Pampa, N.M., eight miles north of here at 10:45 a. m. Monday. Cars driven by W. H. Lindsey, 900 Main street, and J. M. Johnson of Fremont, Miss., collided as they traveled in opposite directions the Johnson car towards Texarkana and Lindsey's on its way to Hope.

An examination at Michael Meagher's hospital where Johnson and his wife, with him at the time of the crash, were brought by Lindsey, revealed that Johnson had suffered a broken leg, cuts and bruises about the face. His wife had several teeth knocked out in addition to being cut on the face and legs.

Lindsey was only slightly cut on the face. Both cars were damaged. Wet and slippery roads were blamed by Lindsey for the accident.

Johnson and his wife were on their way to Fort Worth.

Independents to Organize in Bloc

Parley Called for Wednesday With Appeal Issued to Democrats

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Aggressive independents plan to force a powerful wedge into the House control regardless of which party organizes that branch in the coming Congress.

A preliminary meeting of independents in both parties Sunday was called for Wednesday. The invitation was directed particularly at Democratic independents and came as leaders jockeyed for position in the quest for House control. The insurgents have not figured so strongly since the Republicans lost the majority.

Representative La Guardia, Republican independent, New York, and Representative Kalle, Minnesota, lone Farmer-Laborite, said in issuing the call that although the Democrats "have a majority at this time sufficient to elect a speaker... neither party will have a working majority without the co-operation of the Progressives."

The meeting, a joint statement said, was for arranging "preparatory work for a conference when all Progressives have arrived for this session."

The statement indicated clearly that Kvale, who has made no announcement with which party he would align himself in organization, had decided to continue in an independent role. Both he and La Guardia said they would "reserve the right to support and urge such legislation as they deem proper and to the best interests of the country."

"The Progressives feel that rules of the House which would permit the House to retain control of legislation and remove boss control is of greater importance to the people than the personal ambition of any individual for special committee assignments," they added. "The Progressive group therefore welcomes the continued co-operation of progressive Democrats who worked with them when the Democrats were in the minority."

Should the Republican independents swing a number of Democrats, they would hold a balance of power sufficient to throw the organization to either party. However, the 217 Democrats are sponsoring Representative Garner of Texas for speaker, while the 214 Republicans will decide at a conference November 30 whom they will support.

This Writer Says The Star Is Good

Opinion on County Roads Seems Not to Be Unanimous After All

Editor The Star: I want to say a few words complimentary to the editorials you have been writing the last few weeks.

You can write more truth and tell things more the way I see them than anybody I ever read after in my life.

So, I hope and pray you are permitted to live a long life, for I think you are doing a great work. I could go on and say a great deal about different editorials you have written that were every word the truth.

The County Judge editorial certainly was the truth. All the road work this end of the county gets is for the sake of votes.

GEORGE C. MLARTY.

Nov. 23, 1931

Tokio, Ark.

Editor's Note: Your kind letter is appreciated. They say a man really does his best when under a handicap. The truth is, Mr. Mlarty, I have been suffering incessantly from tonsillitis the past two months. Sometimes I fear I am in a bad way. Just the other week I was on a train going to a business meeting in Little Rock and fell in with Luke Monroe who was going to Rochester, Minn., to let the Mayo Brothers look at his tonsils—and do you know, in almost no time at all we were speaking of operations.

I said, and Luke agreed with me, the country was in a terrible fix when all a lawyer and a newspaper man had to talk about was operations.

Regarding the Judge, I would allow, if I were you, for the extreme liberty that we Americans grant to officeholders and the press. After all, every freeman has his cross to bear.

Newspaper editors get tonsillitis, and the County Judge has to put up with them.

Eight Texans on Congress Ballot

Results of Election May Swing Balance of Power in House

SAN ANTONIO, Texas.—(AP)—Seven Democrats and one Republican, candidates for the congressional seat of the late Harry M. Wurzbach of Seguin, Republican, Monday night drew the attention of state and national political leaders.

Upon results of the special election Tuesday in the Fourteenth Congressional District perhaps hinges the balance of power between closely divided Democratic and Republican forces in the House of Representatives.

Democratic leaders had pleaded vainly with the eight members of their party seeking the post to agree upon one man lest a split vote give the Republicans victory. Two last-minute withdrawals left eight candidates in the field, seven Democrats and one Republican.

Of this group, Carl Wright Johnson of San Antonio and Richard M. Kleberg, Democrats, and Charles W. Anderson of San Antonio, Republican, were regarded as the strongest.

Ben L. Maloney, war veteran and Democrat, withdrew in favor of Johnson and Dr. A. A. Luther, San Antonio Republican, withdrew in favor of Anderson.

Democratic candidates, other than Johnson and Kleberg, are John P. Malinask, William R. Fox, Spencer E. Bonar, Thomas B. Smiley and Harry M. Peabody.

In the present election, none of the candidates has a personal following such as Wurzbach enjoyed. The only issue raised was as to prohibition. Johnson and Kleberg declaring for modification of dry laws and Anderson stating he favored enforcement.

Accident Victim in Serious Condition

Texarkana Man Is Suffering Internal Hurts as Crash Result

PRESCOTT—Hospital physicians here Monday described the condition of M. E. Milestone, of Texarkana, victim of an auto accident near here Saturday, as critical following a thorough examination of his injuries.

Milestone was internally injured in addition to a broken right leg, crushed left knee cap and broken left arm. He was bruised and cut about the body.

Although he remained conscious, Milestone's condition was not believed to have improved Monday.

Milestone has been at the bedside of her husband since shortly after the accident. She came here from their home at Texarkana, 1822 Locust street. She is a niece to Former Sheriff Fleet Magee, of Miller county.

The accident in which Milestone was injured was blamed Monday to a dip in the pavement of the highway. The machine, said to have been traveling at a high rate of speed, left the roadway and crashed into a small oak tree, severing it and plunging further into the woods bordering the highway before finally coming to a stop.

The motor was driven back under the front seat and the entire body of the car was bent and torn.

The Texarkana man was alone except for a big dog, which he carried with him in his automobile.

Murray Plans To Lower Farm Taxes

Attempting to Shift Tax Burden to Other Shoulders

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—An unusual tax reform experiment in which Governor W. H. (Alvin) Bili Murray is attempting to shift the tax burden from the shoulders of home and farm owners to corporations and men with large incomes is progressing rapidly in Oklahoma.

The agency through which he will attempt his tax experiment is a state tax commission. It was empowered by the legislature last January to collect all taxes which formerly had been brought into the treasury by half a dozen departments.

Investigating public utility properties, the commission brought about increased assessments amounting to $61,240,266 as compared with 1930.

Meanwhile county excise-equalization boards of freeholders, authorized under another Murray law, decreased assessments on real and personal property by $100,000,000.

A personal income tax was introduced on all incomes exceeding $2,000 a year. A corporation tax of $1,000 capital stock brought in $692,000 in two months from 5,823 corporations.

An extra one-cent gasoline tax for emergency relief of the poor and for highway purposes raised $1,302,000 from March 25, 1931, to November 1.

The legislature provided the tax should be reduced from five to four cents agallon December 31, but Murray has started a move to continue it until March 1, 1932, to obtain funds for a system of farm-to-market roads.

When Resources End

NOT quite like a mysterious finger writing a prophecy of doom on the palace wall, but rather ominous just the same, was a recent forecast in a middle western banking magazine that present reserves of high grade iron ore in the Lake Superior district will be entirely exhausted in less than 10 years if present rates of shipment prevail.

Of course, new deposits may be found in the rich Minnesota and Michigan ranges: If not, there are extensive low-grade reserves there which may, through some cheap new process, become commercially available. If not, there are still vast deposits elsewhere in America, and water transportation is still cheap. And yet—

The forecast somehow, is disconcerting. For it points to a fact that we like to forget; the fact that there is to be, some day, an inevitable end to the natural resources of the earth. Oil, iron, coal—some day, soon or late, mankind will have used up the last of them, and there will be no possibility of getting any more.

In former ages, perhaps, this would not have mattered quite so much. But the civilization that is being developed now is founded in a peculiarly intimate way, on just those commodities. Skyscrapers, railroads, automobiles, all the great machines that do the work of the world—they come back to this triumvirate inescapably.

To be sure, a cheap synthetic gasoline will be devised some day. Water power may replace coal very nicely. But who ever heard of a synthetic steel? Can you imagine a papier-mache skyscraper, or a locomotive built of cornstark fibers?

Yet this approaching end of the great age of steel is a certainty which we need to look at occasionally. We need to be reminded that we are not building for eternity any more than the Babylonians did. The proudest city sky line will some day vanish. The most imposing manufacturing district will lose its smoke-cloud. These things constitute, not an everlasting framework for human activities, but an insubstantial back-drop which will presently be removed.

The Unwritten Law

A RECENT well-publicized shooting has raised anew the question of the "unwritten law," by which a brother is held justified in killing a man who has betrayed his sister; and the comments of Judge Ben B. Lindsey are, perhaps, worth a little of your consideration.

"I have never yet," says Judge Lindsey, "seen a case of that sort which could not be settled around the dinner table, or before some person who could act as advisor. The girl might be persuaded to discontinue her associations with the man. If she loves him, or will not stop seeing him, the couple should marry. But there's never an excuse for gunplay in a problem of that kind."

This, it seems to us, is a neat little dose of common sense for a situation that is very seldom discussed calmly or rationally.

It's This Way—

CORRECT spelling as an essential factor in the publication of newspapers, magazines, books and other printed matter has been lauded by those who claim to be of the intelligencia. What an old fogey idea.

Simplification of spelling is one thing that would make this nation of ours a more pleasant place in which to live. A standard dictionary contains more words than the average person could learn in two life times. To master the spelling of all of them would be impossible. To learn the proper spelling of half the words we use every day would be a life time job. Spelling ability is not like a vault full of money—it cannot be inherited.

Can you read the following sentence? I thot I new where the rendyvoo was located so I walked thru the mountains until I lolated it. Sure you can. And the Snooping Reporter did not have to look at the dictionary once. Think of the poor kid who must learn how to spell pneumonia, chater, pneumatic and other words. How do you pronounce the following words? Picot, gila, phlegn, yacht, chorine. Now see what Mr. M. Webster has to say about them.

If words were spelled like they are pronounced there would not be so many illiterate people.

I knew you'd see it my way.—A Snooping Reporter in the Stuttgart Arkansas paper.

Robinson Would Ignore Prohibition

Arkansas's Statement to Raskob's Wet Poll

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Congressional Democrats Monday sought to sidetrack prohibition in favor of the economic program as the controversial wet and dry issue again threatened trouble within the party.

Senator Robinson, Arkansas, Democratic leader, announced after a series of conferences with party lieutenants in Congress that no prospect for substantial change in the prohibition law was in prospect because of the make-up of Congress. He would focus attention on the vital economic issues, he said.

Chairman John J. Raskob meantime was calling the Democratic National Committee to meet in January. He intends then to announce the results of his poll on prohibition.

Raskob was criticized by Senator Robinson at the committee meeting last March for bringing up the prohibition issue. His announcement Monday of a poll of contributors to the Democratic 1928 campaign chest on the liquor question was noted with some concern by party leaders.

Robinson's declaration that the party in Congress was not going to submerge economic problems for prohibition was interpreted as the answer of the Congressional Democrats opposing the Raskob prohibition move. Raskob has asked the party to sanction a platform for state liquor control.

"I am still of the opinion that the paramount subjects to be considered by the Congress relate to economic questions, such as agriculture, taxation, unemployment, the deficit in the Treasury and other related vital problems," Robinson said.

"I do not wish to submerge or obscure these by bringing forward social problems, such as that pertaining to prohibition. In view of the present membership of both houses of Congress, no substantial change respecting prohibition may be expected."

Mr. Raskob called the National Committee to meet on January 9 for its regular session to select a date and city for next year's nominating convention. He announced that the committee also would review the drive for funds and take such action as it may desire on the unfinished business originated at the meeting March 5th.

Prohibition comes under the heading of unfinished business originated at the last meeting. Raskob previously had said he would ask the committee to vote on prohibition at its January session.

On January 8, Raskob said the Democrats would join in the annual Jackson Day banquet here with Claude Bowers, New York newspaperman who delivered the keynote address at the 1928 convention, presiding. Speeches at this banquet, he said, would be limited to the party's three former presidential candidates, James M. Cox of Ohio; John W. Davis and Alfred E. Smith of New York.

Protests against the Raskob prohibition move were popping up Monday. Governor Pollard of Virginia asserted that a poll of the contributors at the 1928 national campaign fund would not reflect the sentiment of Democrats as a whole.

"The answers no doubt will reflect the sentiment of those who furnished the money but not those who furnished the votes," he said. "Most of the contributions came from the large wet centers."

The National Prohibition Board of Strategy also issued an attack upon Raskob's step through Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary, saying that the Raskob poll is "a lawyers' brief against prohibition."

Kickers Shove Cougars Over in Tough Battle

FULLMAN, Wash.—(AP)—The kicking department of the Washington State college football team has pulled four games out of the fire in the last two years.

Last season the Cougars won the Pacific Coast conference championship after Lyle Maskell, an end, kicked the point after touchdown for a 7 to 6 victory over Southern California, and sunk the University of Washington 3 to 0 with a 48-yard place kick.

This year Washington State defeated Oregon State 7 to 6 with Mentor Dahlen place-kicking the try-for-point, and nosed out Idaho 9-8 in the last minute of play when John Eubank, substitute fullback, booted a field goal.

Texarkana Men Arrested at Idabel

Pair Returned by Officers in Connection With the Theft of Guns

The two men, who gave their names as J. P. Cameron and H. W. Welch, were wanted by Miller county officers in connection with the theft of a number of guns and a cook stove from the Lucian Adams plantation in Miller county early Monday morning.

Officers here said two rifles, a shotgun and a pistol were found in the automobile in which the men were riding when arrested. Two women who were with the men arrested were released following questioning.

Frank Harbin, who is wanted in Miller county on a larceny charge, also was returned to Texarkana by Fisher. Harbin was arrested several days ago.

Arkansas Turkey Supply Increases

Prices as Thanksgiving Nears Lower Than Elsewhere in Nation

LITTLE ROCK—Turkeys will be plentiful in Arkansas this year, and the price will be well below that in most other states, and about half that in the metropolitan centers of the nation, dealers said Monday. Despite a national decrease of approximately 25 per cent in the turkey supply this year, Arkansas has shown an appreciable increase.

People of the state have apparently taken a renewed interest in raising Thanksgiving table's crowning glory, the state/Agricultural Extension Service reported Monday.

Prevailing prices in Little Rock for turkeys will range around 20 and 25 cents for live and dressed birds, respectively, with a slight premium for choice fowls, it was said. Retail prices of the birds in New York and other large cities are reported to be about 50 cents a pound.

The infant mortality rate for Illinois is 14 per cent lower than that of the United States as a whole, and only two-thirds what it was 6 years ago.

Officers Freed in Death of Students

Guess and Crosby Cleared in Slaying of Young Mexicans

ARDMORE, Okla.—(AP)—The closing chapter of the tragedy in which two young Mexican college students of prominent families were killed last June by two Ardmore peace officers was written Sunday.

William E. Guess and Cecil Crosby, former deputy sheriffs, were acquitted by a district court jury of the murder of Manuel Garcia Gomez, and murder charges pending against Crosby in the death of Emilio Cortes Rubio, kinsmen of the Mexican president, were dismissed.

Guess, who accepted responsibility for firing the fatal shots, was acquitted last summer of the murder of young Cortes Rubio.

F. Dudley, assistant attorney general in charge of the prosecution, said dismissal of the case against Crosby closed the matter, which aroused international interest.

Guess and Crosby thanked the judge and jury and smiled in gratitude as the verdict was given. Guess termed it a "just verdict."

Guess testified he fired in fear of his life when the two students displayed pistols as he and Crosby sought to question them while they were parked on a dark Ardmore street.

The jury, which was out 12 hours, had little difficulty in agreeing on a verdict.

The jury received the case Saturday night and retired early. The verdict was returned about 8 a. m. Sunday in a virtually deserted courtroom.

Guess and Crosby, who gave up their commissions as deputies after the killings and opened a filling station, spent the afternoon receiving the congratulations of their friends. Both expressed relief the trials had come to an end.

Governor Murray, who sent his private attorney, J. M. Springer, and Dudley to represent the state said he wanted it to be a fair trial "according to law and I believe it was a fair trial."

Large Quantity of Rum Captured by U. S. Men

NEW YORK—(AP)—The freighter Haritan Sun with 5000 cases of liquor was seized Monday and 60 men were arrested at Bushey's dry dock at the foot of Court street Brooklyn.

Customs officials estimated the value of the liquor at $330,000 and the vessel, a 533-ton freighter, at $750,000, figures which, if authentic, would make the seizure one of the largest of its type in the history of prohibition enforcement.

The University of Iowa has discontinued awarding the degree of bachelor of laws and in future will confer only the degree J. D. juris doctors.

"BOOTS and her BUDDIES"

THE most attractive looking comic in the country and the clear favorite among all the so-called "girl strips."

One reason why "Boots and Her Buddies" is always a front runner when newspaper polls are held is that Edgar E. Martin is one of the few comic artists who know how to draw a beautiful girl. He knows what the modern girl wears and dresses Boots accordingly. And he provides a daily laugh in the bargain.

"Boots and Her Buddies" is the clear-cut proof that a comic strip need not be grotesque in order to be funny. The daily doings of the blond and beautiful, the gay and irrepressible Boots are the main spot in the day's news for a mighty host of readers.

Deserted Village' Has School Board

School Only Activity of One Time Prosperous Town of Ruddells

ELLSBOURNE, Ark.—(AP)—The little town of Ruddells, near here, is literally a "deserted village," but still it has a school board—all members of the family and all living in the same house.

The school is the only activity in the town where once was located one of the largest lime plants in northern Arkansas. And only two families live there now—one the school teacher's and the other the family of directors.

Some 30 vacant and decaying dwellings stand as a sign of desolation—a two-story hotel has most of its windows broken and a yard growing up in weeds—the village church is a symbol of desertion—a modern railroad station is boarded up and trains no longer stop—nothing is left in the houses and even the streets are growing up in weeds.

Not even a mail sack is thrown from passing trains for the postoffice has been discontinued.

But a school still remains and to meet requirements of the law six directors had to be elected. They are Mr. and Mrs. Andy Pitts, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pitts, son and daughter-in-law of Andy Pitts; Miss Sarah Pitts, daughter of Andy Pitts, and P. M. Hill, brother-in-law of Andy Pitts. Mrs. Andy Pitts is president of the board and her husband is secretary.

The village was "deserted" when a slump in the price of lime caused the plant here to cease operations and the place was moved to a Batesville plant.

A sign of once prosperous times, the lime plant has not been dismantled and some $75,000 worth of machinery is rusting away.

The plant was the principal business of the town.

Steve Banas of Notre Dame is shown off his feet in the arms of Captain Stan Williamson, Trojan center, after making two yards in the second quarter.

Smart SHOPPING

"How good is it?"
That's it!

ABOUT anything and everything they buy, smart shoppers like to ask one question—"How good is it?"

Chesterfield welcomes smokers who buy their cigarettes that way.

OUR tobacco buyers are smart shoppers, too. They "shop" for the ripest, mildest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows. And they won't take anything else.

"How good" are Chesterfields? Well, consider their blending.

Blended and cross-blended...not merely mixed together. Blended first by crops and countries...then cross-blended again and again...to produce a flavor and aroma that are Chesterfield's alone.

That's how we get that better taste...that's why Chesterfields are milder. Even the paper they're rolled in is the whitest, cleanest and purest that money can buy.

And the package...clean, bright, fresh-looking...see how easily it opens, yet how tightly it's sealed.

OPEN a package. Note the aroma...delicious foretaste of pleasure ahead.

Now—pull out a Chesterfield...round, firm, well-filled.

"HOW good is it?" Light up...then you tell us!

Milder? Right! Taste better? You bet they do! They're pure, too—and they certainly do satisfy!

Good...they've got to be good! There's value here. We know, because we put it in...and you'll smoke it out with every one you light.

"Sure I shop for cigarettes—Chesterfields satisfy me"
